Hilory,

I have attached a document with two charts for the zip code reports. The report runs for all approaches from 2011-2012. The first chart indicates Belmont cites versus all other cities. The only significant other cities in the area were San Mateo and Redwood City. The second chart includes those cities as well. It looks like Belmont residents are a very low percentage of your violators.

Let me know if you have any questions or concerns about this report.
